A Progress Reporting Solution

Ignite is a progress reporting solution to help you get information with the least amount of friction.

Nothing slows you down like following up with team members for progress updates. While the team spends valuable time in updating spreadsheets for weekly reports, you invest time trying to derive a logical information. Your inbox floods with endless emails on status updates, weekly reports, shared documents, and conversations with team members. Sometimes key stakeholders fall out of the loop.

To add to the chaos, your team members use every other possible mode to keep you updated – calls, sms, whatsapp messages, scheduled and impromptu meetings.

Whether you are a CEO, VP, Manager, or anyone who needs visibility into what your team is working on, on a day-to-day basis, with Ignite you are in perfect sync with the action in your projects, your team, and your organization. We have re-imagined the way progress reporting happens.

Ignite can re-invent progress reporting for you.

Little Less Conversation, Little More Action

Ignite is a progress reporting solution with a task management engine at the core of it. While Ignite is not a project management system, it still lets you create projects and assign tasks to your team members. What makes MindCraft's Ignite vital is the effortless updation in real time of every project your team is working on.

Ignite increases the effectiveness of your team's and your own efforts, by providing more accountability and transparency than email. Unlike email, Ignite makes the work distribution more structured, and makes it less likely for you to lose information.

Ignite organizes all your project deadlines, tasks, files and conversations at one transparent place, giving you a more liberal way of looking at all communication and hence a better overview of your team's progress and individual contribution.

You get updates as they happen. With clarity about who is doing what and when, you can work more efficiently. No need to schedule meetings or email progress reports – just look at Ignite to know what's going on in the project.
